President's Message

Congratulations to all who participated in the Kauai Farm Bureau Orchid Show titled, 'ORCHID FALLS'. Kudos to the show chairs, display chairs, refreshment chairs, plant sales chair, awards chairs, publicity chair and all the volunteers who made this possible.

Our thoughts, hearts and minds go out to Richard Teragawa who is recovering in Wilcox hospital.

Orchids in Paradise 2010

While many of us were concerned that our flowers would be late this year because of the cooler weather, our members still came forth with a favorable selection. The theme this year was "Orchid Falls", a depiction of an imaginary falls somewhere on this island. Fair goers were as always expecting a dazzling show and we didn't disappoint.

A special thanks to Anne Notley and Carol Yasutake for another lovely design and to all of you came to set it up, served as security/information personnel, sold the orchids in the orchid sales booth and helped take the display down. Please enjoy the photos that were taken at the show. For more about the show, see reprint of TGI article on Page 7.

2010 Orchids in Paradise

Text from article appearing in the Garden Island by Ada Koene

Orchid lovers visiting Hawaii are often amazed at the beauty and variety of the orchids displayed at the two annual Garden Island Orchid Society orchid shows. Some of the more avid orchid lovers even schedule their arrivals or departures around the spring or autumn show dates. Even though our weather this year may have slowed the blooming of many orchid plants, we promise that all mainland and local visitors to the show will not go away disappointed. They can look forward to a good selection from our orchid nurseries such as: Neill Sams' Vandas, Nancy Nakama's Dendrobiums, Gwen Teragawa's Grammatophyllums and Oncidiums, David Neifert's Phalaenopsis and Cattleya, Al and Amy Sugano's Paphiopedilums and Phalaenopsis and Allan Yamada's unusual species, among others. Some of our hobbyists do very well in these shows as well. The theme this year will be "Orchid Falls" --an imaginary waterfall somewhere on Kauai surrounded by orchids of every type and description. If all goes well, it will be wet, mossy and cool.

We have to say an "imaginary waterfall with orchids" for regrettably we cannot trek into our rain forests to find these lovelies growing in the trees like in the rain forests of Brazil and Costa Rica. To find our native orchids we will have to look at the forest floor. If we are lucky we will find one of three native terrestrials: Liparis hawaiiensis (awapuhia-kanalao), Anoectochilus sandvicensis (jewel-orchid) and the Plantanthera holochila (fringed orchid). The Plananthera is nearly extinct but plants are sometimes found in the Alakai Swamp on Kauai and the Kamakou Preserve on Maui.

We might also find some Philippine ground orchids (Spathoglottis plicata). These charming little orchids have been spotted near the Hanama'ulu and Wailua Streams. A friend recently photographed some on the road to Waimea Canyon. There is also an introduced Arundinea graminifolia (bamboo orchid) which can be found on the Lihue side of the Halfway Bridge and Volcanoes and Akaka Fall State Parks on the Big Island, among others.

If you want to learn more about orchids, come join one of the two orchid clubs on the island. The Garden Island Orchid Society meets in Hanapepe at the United Church of Christ while the Kauai Orchid Society Meets in Kapa'a at the Mahelona Hospital. Both meet six times a year. The Garden Island Orchid Society hosts the Spring Fantasy Show which is usually held at the end of March or early April and Orchids in Paradise which is one of the displays at the Kauai Farm Bureau Fair. Kauai Orchid Society has one show at Kukui Grove just before Mother's Day. Speakers at the bi-monthly meetings might include orchidists from as far as Florida and Taiwan but often include our local experts from the other islands and some from right here on Kauai. Some of the meetings consist of hands-on workshops where members are taught such basics as potting and staking. In addition to the bi-monthly meetings, members also arrange for local tours to the various gardens and growers. For more information about the club, see our website: gardenislandorchidsociety.org. Newsletters from seasons past are also posted on this site.
